

LEE HITS 90!—Legendary auto tycoon Lee Iacocca (center) celebrated his 90th birthday party in his Bel Air villa. He is congratulated by pals (from left): retired L.A. County Sheriff Lee Baca, real estate investor Tony Vincent of Beverly Hills, famed bandleader Ray Anthony and Frank Mancuso, former chairman /CEO of Paramount and MGM.
Photo by Joey Julius/Visual Sherpa

Lee Miller, Scott Carrey, Andrew Wallenstein Among Caucus Awardees Dec. 11 At Skirball Center

By John L. Seitz

Producer/director Lee Miller, digital media and technology specialist Scott Carrey, and Variety Co-Editor-in-Chief Andrew Wallenstein will join previously announced award recipients, Sony Pictures President Steve Mosko, and executive producer Vin Di Bona, as honorees at The Caucus for Producers, Writers & Directors 32nd Awards Dinner on Thursday, Dec. 11, in the Skirball Cultural Center, according to Norman S. Powell, Caucus chair, and Chuck Fries of Beverly Hills, president of the Caucus Foundation and dinner chair.

As president of Lee Miller Productions, Miller (Caucus Chair's Award) has produced and directed more than 2,000 hours of diverse TV programming, including film dramas, variety specials and series, and live event specials such as the Tony Awards, the Emmys, and People's Choice Awards.

Caucus New Media Chair, Carrey (Caucus Distinguished Service Award) is considered a leading expert in digital workflows with projects from traditional film and TV productions to new media and special venue applications. Wallenstein oversees Variety's coverage of the entertainment industry, with a focus on technology.

Proceeds from the dinner will benefit The Caucus Foundation, which has provided grants and awards of $1.3 million to 138 worthy students to complete their film, television or new media projects.

For reservations, email: caucuspwd@caucus.org or call 818-888-6182.

Questions? Comments? Concerns?

The Courier loves to hear from its readers! Feel free to contact us with any thoughts on something you read, or something we should cover at editorial@bhccourier.com